LATEST NEWS DISPATCHES FROM VARIOUS PARTS OF THE STATE.

It Was Not Silloway's Body as at First Supposed.—Sent to the Industrial School. Y. M. C. A. Conference—Many Claimants Under a Will—Rockville A. O. U. E.—Other Notes.

Hartford, Oct. 28.—Upon examination the body found in the Connecticut river this afternoon proves not to be that of Martin De Silloway, who wrote he would commit suicide. The face was so much covered with mud when found that it was supposed to be he. The body is that of an unknown man thirty-seven years old, five feet nine inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. The sum of eighty-seven cents was found in one of the pockets of the clothing and a silk handkerchief marked "P." There are no marks of violence. Medical Examiner Fuller thinks the body had been in the water three days.

THE WRECK AT STONY CREEK.

Stony Creek, Oct. 28.—To-day another attempt was made to float the schooner Lizzie D. Sanders, which has been on the rocks at the Thimbles for nearly three weeks. Captain Nelson, with his crew of one, was reinforced by some helpers from Stony Creek. The work progressed rapidly and it was thought that the vessel would be floated successfully. When at high water, however, an attempt was made to haul her off, the schooner remained hard fast. Another trial will be made to-morrow.

THE GIRL'S CASE DISPOSED OF.

Norwich, Oct. 28.—Celia Aitken, who was arrested last night for stealing $120 from seventy-year-old Lucien C. Swan, was arraigned before the judge of the city court to-day and the trial proceeded in a semi-star chamber style. At times it was open to the public and at others the doors were closed. The nature of some of the testimony is not given out. The court decided to send the girl, who is precocious for her twelve years to the Industrial School for Girls at Middletown until she is of age. She is the daughter of a widowed mother, who has eight children and the judge decided that she was better off at home.

The court ordered Judge Bercher, for the contestants, to prepare a declaration that his clients were blood relatives.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT — WILL PROBABLY DIE.

Hartford, Oct. 28.—Theodore Smith, seventeen years old, colored, was accidentally shot to-day by William Rue, also colored and a close friend of Smith. The two, with a third companion, William Jones, were enjoying a holiday. Smith and Rue had floored pipes and were seeking game. Jones was acting in the capacity of retriever. The trio were in the lots near the Watkinson farm school on Albany avenue. Rue was in front of Smith and his rifle was raised to the position of aim. For some reason he turned and the muzzle was in close proximity to Smith's head. The weapon was provided with a hair trigger and before either knew what had happened the gun went off. The ball, .22-caliber, lodged in Smith's head, penetrating a nostril. He sank to the ground. Jones ran up with Rue, took Smith to the river bank and bathed his wounds, after which they telephoned to the city. The patrol wagon was sent out. Smith was removed to the hospital and the other two went to the lock-up. Smith will probably die before morning. He has lost the use of his legs and it is feared that the bullet lodged in the brain. The shooting was evidently accidental, for the two were the best of friends.

The six men who were aboard were helpless and the dredge went to the bottom. The men escaped in the small boats and were taken on board one of the scows in the tow. The Rattler will be raised as soon as possible.

THE KATAHDIN'S TRIAL TRIP.

New London, Oct. 28.—The government ram Katahdin is practically prepared for the trial trip, which is given out as scheduled for Thursday of this week. To-morrow morning the Katahdin will leave the harbor for a preliminary run in the sound. The trip will be in no way official and is merely for the purpose of bringing to light any small imperfections which may remain. The Dolphin and Fern are still in the harbor and will remain until after the official test of the ram.

On motion of Jewett's counsel he was given until December 3 to pay $500.

Probate Court—Judge Cleveland.

A further hearing on the application of Dr. M. A. Cremin to have Thomas J. Donnelly file a satisfactory report as administrator of the estate of his father, the late Francis Donnelly of Fair Haven, was had in the probate court yesterday morning.

Dr. Cremin was represented by White & Daggett, Donnelly by Judge Lynde Harrison and James P. Bree and the law firm of Reynolds & Donovan represented Frederick W. Donnelly. In explaining the nature of the real estate Mr. Donnelly said that he had sold for $38,000 to Leonard C. Ryder of the Smedley company. Asked as to the conditions of the sale witness said he had accepted Mr. Ryder's note for $30,000, cash of $5,000, and two mortgage notes for the property. Acting on this statement Mr. Daggett said that the administrator had no right to sell the estate under such conditions and he said that such a course furnished cause for his removal.

The motion for removal was opposed by counsel for Donnelly, and Judge Cleveland said he would decide the matter to-morrow morning.

REV. EDWARD A. SMITH.

Yesterday's Hartford Courant has an appreciative sketch by Rev. Dr. Walker of the life of Rev. Edward Alfred Smith, member of Yale corporation. The concluding portion of the article is as follows:

The Rev. Edward Alfred Smith was born in East Woodstock, Conn., July 22, 1835. He was son of Isaac E. Smith of New York and Emily Walker of East Woodstock. On both sides of his family he came of sound Puritan lineage running back to the earliest period of New England history. He was brought up in New York, where his father was a large and successful lumber merchant. He graduated from Yale college in 1856, in a class numbering among his associates Justices Brewer and Brown of the United States supreme court, Chauncey Depew, Wolcott Calkins, once pastor of the First church in Hartford, Professor Payne of Bangor Theological seminary and other men of public repute.

Entering Yale Theological seminary for one year, he completed his theological course at Denver, graduating in the class of 1859. The two or three following years were spent in study at Göttingen and Halle universities in Germany.

Returning home during the war period and the draft disturbances in New York, he enlisted as a volunteer in putting down the riots in that city in 1863; he also in 1864 entered the service of the United States sanitary commission at City Point, Va.; a service in which he incurred a nearly fatal attack of malarial fever. Recovering from this prostration, he began, early in 1865, to preach at the Second church in Chester, Mass.; a place which was destined to be his home for the next nine years. He received ordination by a council called at West Springfield, November 13, 1865; and on March 3 of the same year he married Mrs. Melissa (Knob) Heath of Chester. Here in this quiet parish among the Berkshire Hills he remained in a happy and useful pastorate, till his transfer in the spring of 1874 to Farmington in this state, when he was installed May 5 of that year. The Farmington pastorate continued till impaired health obliged him to resign in the autumn of 1887, soon after which time Mr. Smith removed his residence to Hartford, where he had since lived. He was elected a member of Yale corporation in June, 1889, and had served since 1883 on the board of directors of the Home Missionary society of Connecticut, and the trustees of the Fund for Ministers. He united with the First church in Hartford in April, 1892, bringing with him into the same church fellowship his wife and his eldest son, Herbert Knox; and to which his only other child, Ernest W., was subsequently joined.

This is the bald outline of the main visible facts of Mr. Smith's history. But such an outline conveys but little impression of his sweetness, the grace and the benevolence with which such facts were illuminated and beautified to all who were brought into intimate contact with the life to which they belonged. Extremely modest and almost diffident, Mr. Smith had resources, scholarship and ability which a chance acquaintance would hardly surmise, but which were, to those who knew him well, clearly recognized and rejoiced in. A man of most tender sensibilities, his pastorates were marked by the best qualities of ministerial service; and the hearts of the people to whom he ministered are full of loving memories of his gentle faithfulness. As a preacher he was clear, instructive tender and persuasive. He was remarkably uplifting and helpful in prayer. His own faith and hope had power to a singular degree to uplift the hope and faith of others.

Free-handed and generous, he was in quiet and often hidden ways a contributor to public and private benevolences constantly and often in large amounts. The stewardship of property for the welfare of others, which had been illustrated by his father before him, was continued by the son.

A most interesting trait of Mr. Smith's character was his unenvying rejoicing in the success of others, and his generous and charitable construction of men's character and motives. He always put the best and kindest interpretation possible on any action of others. The weak found in him one making allowance for infirmity, and even when the wrong could not be denied his lips hesitated to condemn.

His family life was complete in its faithfulness and happiness. It was one of the more conspicuous later experiences of their family satisfaction that his son, Herbert Knox, at his graduation at Yale Law school last June secured so remarkable a success, taking the two chief prizes in the department. Sitting by the father's side at the moment the writer could see his eye kindle and his lip quiver, but to the hearty congratulations extended him, his characteristic modesty suppressed all most any audible response.

GIGGLE GABBLE.

A Boston Philosopher's Merry Musings.

A Well Aimed Shot that Hit the Mark.

Fashion's Follies Pierced by Witty Words.

When Oliver Wendell Holmes was asked his idea of an afternoon tea, he wittily replied that it could be easily defined in four words: "Giggle, gabble, gobble, git." How aptly this applies to the American way of eating. The food is swallowed in a hurry, and half digested, remains a load on the stomach; the system is not nourished, and thus the blood becomes impoverished. There is a feeling of fullness, with yawning, constipation, paleness of the face, icy coldness of the feet, faintness in the morning and drowsiness during the day. All these show that the blood is thick and stagnant, the result of eating improperly. Rich, red blood is needed, and, to make this, the stomach must be helped to do its work rightly. Nothing aids the stomach as much as a tonic, and thousands of people have learned that there is only one for such cases. Mr. S. W. McLaughlin, who resides at 243 Oxford street, Portland, Me., tried this tonic and here is the result in his own words:

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia for a long time, so that my good digestion was severely. Everything I ate distressed me and I often threw up my food, and my sufferings were severe. This continued for about three months. I employed doctors and several kinds of highly recommended medicines, but nothing did me any good until I struck Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. I heard it highly recommended and went for it, and I am cured. I used five bottles."

What a world of good Dr. Greene's Nervura, the great blood and nerve remedy, did the writer of this letter. It helped him as he never had been helped before. You need such a tonic; you are suffering as he did; you can be cured as he was. It is useless to put off getting this grand medicine; every day that you wait means added torments. End your sufferings at once by taking the remedy which has saved countless thousands throughout the world, and which is the wonderful blood and nerve remedy, Dr. Greene's Nervura, Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York City, whom you can always consult either personally or by letter without charge.

MOB TRIED TO GET AT MARTIN.

Marshal Schultz's Murderer Taken to Sandusky for Safety.

Sandusky, O., Oct. 28.—Lee Martin, who shot and killed Marshal Schultz of Tiffin, is safe in the county jail at Fremont. He arrived last night in the company of Sheriff Schlossman of Sandusky county and a deputy from Seneca county.

After the mob's attack on the jail at Tiffin early yesterday morning, which attack was repulsed after two of the rioters had been killed, it was decided that it would be unsafe to allow the prisoner to remain in the jail there, and he was taken to Fremont, being smuggled out of the jail by a rear door.

After he had been jailed there a mob of 500 persons assembled and threatened to storm the jail. After consulting Judge Greene of Fremont, Sheriff Schlossman was directed to bring the prisoner to Sandusky.

A number of persons had driven over to Fremont from Tiffin, and there was a mob on the platform at the depot when Martin was placed aboard an east-bound train.

The mob was angry and threatening, but made no attempt to get the prisoner. Martin was taken safely to Norwalk and thence brought to the jail here.

Later in the evening about 100 militiamen arrived in box cars attached to a freight train on the Big Four road, but on learning that there was no disturbance here they returned to Tiffin.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Senator Higgins Unable to Come.

Senator Higgins of Delaware, who was invited to deliver a lecture before the chamber of commerce to-morrow night, has written that because of other engagements he cannot come. It was intended by the chamber to have him deliver the lecture on silver coinage which he delivered before the Social Science convention in Saratoga September 6. Judge Sheldon has a typewritten copy of that lecture, and he will read extracts from it to the chamber to-morrow night, and he will also discuss them.

YALE NEWS OF INTEREST.

SUCCESS OF THE UNIVERSITY EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.

The Contagious Disease Hospital—Yale Kent Club Debate Last Night on "Trusts and Monopolies"—The Coming Yale-Harvard Debate—The Wayland Debating Club.

The report of the Yale Employment bureau shows that last winter thirty-nine students applied for employment, many of whom obtained it, while there were sixteen applications of persons seeking to employ students. Twenty-four students were hired on election day for distributing ballots. This term already thirty-nine students have asked employment and twenty-seven have obtained it.

At the request of the New York women who raised the funds for the new Yale Contagious Disease hospital, to be placed on Mansfield street, in this city, near the Yale Infirmary, the matter will now probably be pushed to a legal conclusion. Property owners in the neighborhood joined in a protest to the Yale corporation, which that body rejected, and it is likely they will now apply for an injunction, which will test the case.

The Yale News yesterday has a severe editorial on misbehavior of the spectators toward the visiting team at the Boston-Yale football game last Saturday.

YALE LAW SCHOOL.

The debate of the Yale Kent club last evening was:

"Resolved, That all trusts and monopolies tending to banish competition should be prohibited by law." Messrs. Martyn '96 and Peterson '96 on the affirmative. Messrs. Wyckoff '96 and McCall on the negative.

One of the most instructive debates ever heard in the Kent club was given, and the great question as ably handled as it could have been in the school time at the disposal of the speakers. Preliminary preparations for the debate between Yale and Harvard are under way and the competitors for the preliminary debates will soon be selected from the Yale Kent club and Yale union. The standard of oratory at the Law school is made higher this year than it has been during the past few years, and is the result of the public debates. The faculty have done all they could to place on the platform this year a representation that shall do honor to the university and bring home to Yale the victories which she deserves.

As the winter campaigns come on they hope to see the university as well represented in debate as she is in athletic circles.

The Wayland Debating club is progressing finely, and this new departure of the junior class will prove a valuable adjunct to their legal education.

Klett '95 spent a few hours visiting familiar scenes in the Law school, and his friends of '96 congratulate him on his success since leaving New Haven. Their best wishes go with him.

Lake Steamer Aground.

St. Joseph, Mich., Oct. 28.—The steamer Peerless of the Lake Michigan and Lake Superior line went aground at the entrance to St. Joseph harbor last evening, and now lies in a perilous position. At midnight the boat had shifted over on her side, so that the gangways were under water, and the stern was pounding badly on the rocks. No tugs were available in the St. Joseph harbor, and it was impossible to render any assistance to the disabled steamer.
